General Comment

I am vehemently opposed to proposed CMS-9992-IFC2 rule to force religious entities such as Catholic Universities and Catholic Health Organizations to be forced to provide services which have been against their religious tenants since time immemorial. The Catholic Church has always taught that contraception is against the natural moral order. To force these Catholic sponsored entities to provide services against their dogma is akin to forcing the NAACP to provide financial support to the KKK. Before you get your liberal dignities offended consider that both situations require said entities to provide support to situations antithetical to their very nature and long held beliefs.
